Black Agnes, Lady Randolph

Do you ken what this reminds me of, Ben?

The story of Lady Agnes Randolph and the plight of Dunbar Castle.

Mary Morris you remind me of Black Agnes
The Celtic Countess of Dunbar
Just as Agnes had to save her castle
You must save yours like the feisty lass you are

*Black Agnes's adversary six hundred years ago was William Montagu.
Today in Mary Morris's story Garret Ward's the villain. The only difference being Garret Ward's no gentleman.*

Men still sing the praises of dark Lady Randolph
Who repelled the English foe and saved her clan
She was fearless like a lioness in danger
With the courage to match the grit of any man

Montagu's twenty thousand men surrounded Dunbar Castle; but behind its walls Black Agnes with her servants and a few faithful guards stood firm.

And when the English soldiers stormed the ramparts
On her alone did all her kith and kin depend
Regardless of the might of Montagu's vast army
Her fortress she'd defend until the end

Cannae wait to know how the Dunbar affair concluded, eh?

Twas the year of our Lord thirteen thirty-eight
When Montagu laid siege to the castle gate
But the lass managed to stave off defeat
And all the Sassenachs had no choice but to retreat

But maybe that's not the end of the story, Ben. There could well be another chapter.

A score to settle - Montagu rode away
But he's now come back as Garret Ward I'd say

Mary Morris you remind me of Black Agnes
She was a raven beauty too
So I think I'd better keep my distance
For if I don't I just might fall in love with you

What do you mean what do I mean "might"?

Haud yer weesht!
